Paget's Association

The Paget's Association is a charity, which provides information and support to all those affected by Paget's Disease of Bone. The Association also funds quality research, raises awareness, and supports professionals to achieve excellence in care and research.

What is Paget's Disease of Bone?

Paget's disease affects the normal repair and renewal process of bone. Throughout life, bone is renewed and repaired through a process called bone remodelling. Paget's disease is characterised by abnormalities in this process. The affected bone is renewed and repaired at an increased rate, adversely affecting the bone's structure.

Paget's Support Network

Members of the Paget's Association can join our Paget's Support Network. This is a free, mutually supportive network to enable members to talk or write to others who either have Paget's disease or who care for someone who has the condition. Not only can you network with members in the UK but, if you wish, you can also contact members from overseas.

Research

The Paget's Association funds and supports research into various aspects of Paget's disease to help improve the quality of life for those with the condition and also their families. Research supported by the charity includes prevention, treatment and pain.

Membership

We welcome both UK and overseas members. Health professionals, researchers, patients and carers can join the Paget's Association online or request a membership application form using the contact details overleaf.

Our membership pack includes information booklets, copies of our magazine and information sheets on various aspects of Paget's disease. For full details and a complete list of current membership benefits, please visit our website.
